

Moving filters to the top creates a more intuitive functional heirarchy

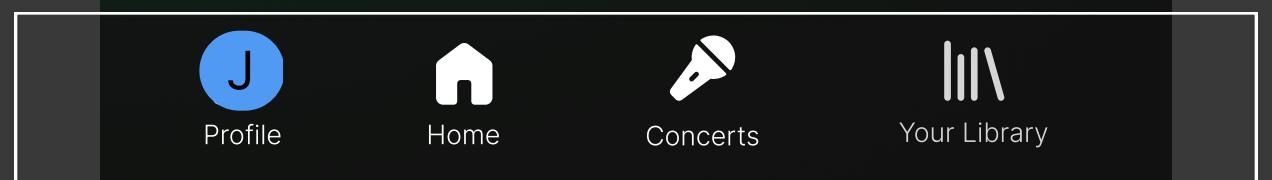

Giving a label "Your Latests" gives the user insight. Lowering the amount of "latests" from 8 to 6 is to reduce user options and provide more space

The "Jump Back In" section is replaced with a "Releases for you". This gets rid of the redundancy with the "Your Latests" section and adds a fairly common functionality (browsing new music) right to the home screen.

Adding the background of the album to the current song playing gives a more personalized user experience

Added the profile and concerts tabs to the footer for more logical grouping
